The Maine Writing Project Summer Institute

The Maine Writing Project is excited to invite educators to an in-person professional development institute held at Husson University on June 23rd - June 27th.

The course includes a series of online group meetings in May that involve participants in discussions of readings in addition to the in-person week in June. To participate, please indicate your interest by April 15th: MWP Summer Institute Invitation

What is the Maine Writing Project?

As a part of the National Writing Project, the Maine Writing Project works to connect K-16 educators through sites and events such as the Summer Institute as well as online networks that last a lifetime. The focus of the Writing Project is to bring together experienced teachers and writers to teach and learn with other teachers writing through practice, advancing leadership, spreading expertise, and helping everyone develop as a writer.

The Summer Institute: Writers as Teachers, Teachers as Writers

The Institute of Maine Writing Project is a collaborative workshop that introduces participants to the principles and practices of the National Writing Project, and supports each educator in developing original writing as well as instructional practice.

Participants will work directly with expert teacher-consultants, and receive feedback and instruction in collaboration with their peers.

This institute can be taken for three graduate credits or 45 contact hours.

To see a breakdown of the institute and tentative schedule:
W 2025 ED 615 Fellows NWP Syllabus 1.24.25 (1).docx

The institute will be led by co-directors of the Maine Writing Project, Sandip Wilson (wilsonsa@husson.edu), MWP '99, Ryan Roderick (roderickr@husson.edu), Aaron Thibodeau (ThibodeauA@husson.edu), and MWP mentors who will be announced soon.

If you're interested in participating, please complete an application here: MWP Summer Institute Invitation

Sincerely,

Sandip Wilson, Aaron Thibodeau, and Ryan Roderick

Husson University